

Assistant Professor of Nursing

The Department of Public Health at Faculty of Health at Aarhus University invites applications for a position as Assistant Professor in the field of Nursing as soon as possible or 1 of January at the latest. The position is a fixed-term full-time position for 4 years. The workplace can be at the university campus in either Aarhus or Emdrup.

Department of Public Health

As an assistant professor at the Department of Public Health, you will be part of an ambitious and internationally recognised department, where we work together to promote public health through research into areas that can prevent, treat and alleviate disease. We are involved in broad collaboration both internally and externally. We share our knowledge with citizens, decision-makers, business and industry, practitioners and other researchers – in municipalities, in the regions and both nationally and internationally. The department either contributes to or is responsible for teaching in medicine, public health science, sport science, optometry and nursing. At the Department of Public Health, you will have approx. 200 colleagues, including ninety academic staff members and a corresponding number of PhD students. We work closely with one another across different fields of study and prioritise a healthy work environment. The general tone among colleagues is informal. You can read more about the department here and about the faculty here.

Your job responsibilities

As Assistant Professor of Nursing your primary tasks will be research and research-based teaching. You will teach and supervise students at Bachelor's and Master's level, and you will contribute to the development of the department through research of high international quality. In your daily work, you will work closely with both Danish and international colleagues. The position of Assistant Professor is a career development position in which you will receive supervision and pedagogical upgrading.

Your main tasks will include:

- Independent research of high international quality, including publication.
- Teaching, guidance and examination of Bachelor's and Master's degree students, as well as possibly supervision of PhD students.
- Contributions towards attracting external research funding.
- Development of International networks and collaborations.

You will report to Head of Department Ole Bækgaard Nielsen.

Your competences

You have independent research-related qualifications at a high international level. You are a clear communicator and you have some degree of experience of supervision and teaching at Bachelor's and Master's degree level. Completed pedagogical courses in supervision or similar will be a plus, as will experience with the establishment of PhD courses and external research collaborations.

As a person, you have good interpersonal skills, are friendly and helpful and able to contribute to a good work environment. You see the pronounced professional diversity of the department as a strength and you are internationally oriented.

We expect you to be fluent in oral and written English. International applicants are expected to learn Danish, and Aarhus University arranges Danish teaching.

In order to be assessed as qualified for an Assistant Professor position, you must meet these academic criteria.

Shortlisting will be used.
